Cycles of Change: Farming in Norwich

A story of our rich agricultural heritage

Photographs: Chad Finer • Video: Ben Silberfarb • Opening Reception • Friday, June 20th • 5-7pm

Norah Lake, Sweetland Farm

Cycles of Change: Farming in Norwich, a photography exhibit by Chad Finer, will feature eight working farms operating in Norwich today. The images are supported by a series of oral history interviews by the Vermont Folklife Center and a video by local filmmaker Ben Silberfarb, featuring four of the working farms in the exhibit.

Cycles of Change, a project of the Norwich Historic Preservation Commission, partnering with the Historical Society will document the history of farming in our town and Cycles of Change: Farming in Norwich has been financed, in part, with federal funds from the National Park Service, Department of the Interior, through the Vermont Division for Historic Preservation.

AT THE NORWICH HISTORICAL SOCIETY

5th Annual House & Garden Tour • Saturday, June 28 • 10am-4pm
Rain or Shine! Tickets: $25 ($20 NHS members)

The five properties showcased in the 2014 Norwich Historical Society House and Garden tour span the town's diversity of beautiful architecture and interesting gardens.

The gardens at Meeting House Farm, farmed continuously since its establishment in the 1780s, surround a Georgian farmhouse well-known for its balance and fine detail, as well as for the c. 1820 over-mantle murals in the two west bedrooms.

Built nearly two centuries later, a 1973 house designed for himself by architect Allan Gelbin, a Frank Lloyd Wright apprentice, is carefully sited so that the wide expanses of glass reflect the White Mountains panorama and give a tree-house feel in summer.

The old Cossingham farm, a Norwich fixture since 1895, and a new stone and cedar home with artist's studio feature gardens designed to complement their different genres.

The garden of Bill Noble, former Director of Preservation for the Garden Conservancy, include perennial borders, a vegetable garden and fruit trees, rock gardens, mixed borders and meadows and represent an ongoing experiment with plants and ideas gathered from working with other gardens throughout the country.

It is a day not to be missed. Please join us!

10th annual Norwich Antiques Show Saturday, September 6th

It is hard to believe that the Norwich Antiques Show will be celebrating its 10th anniversary this year. Spencer-Julian Antiques continue to organize a wonderful event that draws some of the best dealers in New England who return each year with fine country to formal antiques. Bill Smith, William A. Smith Auctioneers and Appraisers, Plainfield NH, generously lends his marquee tent for the event. As in years past, Bill is also the 'starring attraction' providing informal appraisals in the Society's barn from 2-4pm. This year there will be some special events to celebrate the 10th anniversary with good food, wonderful music, and other surprises too. Mark your calendar now!

WILLIAM ALDRICH VOLUNTEER OF THE YEAR AWARD

was established this year in honor of Bill's many years of service to the Historical Society.

ROGER BLAKE

Roger's common sense and wise advice on a wide range of projects and problems demonstrates what a valuable volunteer he is. The Historical Society benefits every day from his long-standing interest and support, always putting our best interests first. Thank you Roger!

We have just concluded the 5th year of the Vermont Humanities Council's very popular lecture discussion series, First Wednesdays. The Historical Society and the Library co-sponsor this series held the first Wednesday of each month from October-May at the Congregational Church. We thank our generous sponsors without whom First Wednesdays would not be possible: Friends of the Norwich Public Library, The Jack and Dorothy Byrne Foundation, Ledyard National Bank, Mascoma Savings Bank, and the Norwich Historical Society.

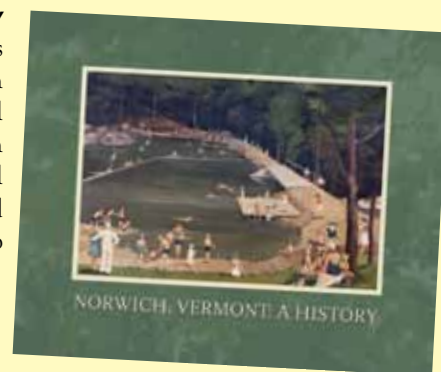

1st Wednesdays
Humanities Lecture Series

The 2014 series begins Wednesday, October 1st with famed Vermont pianist Michael Arnowitt who is considered one of the most creative and imaginative classical and jazz pianists today. The program will be a performance lecture, An Evening of George Gershwin. NPR's Susan Stamberg will be with us in November. It promises to be another exciting year for First Wednesdays.

Norwich, Vermont: A History

debuted December 2012 and is now in its third printing with all profits going to the Historical Society. The book is filled with stories and photographs that will appeal to those who have lived here for a long time as well as to those who are new to town.

IN MEMORY OF UWE BAGNATO

Mary Bagnato

Thanks to Mary Bagnato's generous gift, two lovely teak benches grace the Society's front lawn now and welcome the community to the Historical Society. Uwe was the principal at Hanover High School from 1983-2001. After retiring, he and Mary returned to India where they had been in the Peace Corps. He was the headmaster of the high school at the American International School in New Delhi. Returning to Norwich in 2008, he ran successfully as a write-in candidate for the Selectboard. His skilled leadership and calm demeanor brought reason and clarity to many important issues during a time of political upheaval in town.

THE WILLIAM B. AND NANCY P. OSGOOD FUND FOR THE COLLECTIONS

This special fund was established when Bill passed away in July 2013 thanks to his generous friends and family. Bill shared with his wife, Nancy a deep interest in Norwich history. This fund recognizes their joint commitment to the Historical Society and the importance he placed, and she places on its collections. Gifts to this fund will provide support for collections care and future acquisitions, both part of the Historical Society's mission.

The Osgood Fund made possible the purchase, restoration and framing of six Hutchinson-Loveland portraits of two of Norwich's earliest and most prominent citizens, painted by Roswell Tenney Smith in the 1840s.
